

HUSBAND SHOTS AND KILLS SPOUSE

Rubber Worker, After Being Arrested, Declares It Was an Accident.

STORY DOESN'T SATISFY POLICE

Man Says While Examining Revolver He Thought He Took All the Cartridges Out and When He Snapped Hammer Third Time One Exploded.

Akron. — Frank Warhus, aged 27, a rubber worker, Wednesday night shot and killed his wife in their home in Stanton-av. Warhus was arrested, but declares the shooting was an accident. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Warhus, was shot through the heart and died instantly.

Says Shooting Accidental.

The shooting occurred at 8 o'clock. Warhus said that his wife had complained that a man had been bothering her and that she had borrowed a revolver from a neighbor for her protection. He said that when he entered the house his wife hid the weapon, but told him about the man. He said he found the revolver, and while his wife was seated at the piano he started to unload the weapon.

"While I was examining the revolver," said Warhus, "I took out the cartridges and thought I had them all out. I snapped the hammer a couple of times and the third time there was an explosion. My wife fell from the piano stool and I found that I had shot her."

Police Hold Husband.

The police are not entirely satisfied with the story told by Warhus and are holding him pending an investigation. They declare they cannot understand how the woman could be shot through the heart if she was seated at the piano and her husband was across from her and almost back of her.

The Warhuses have no children.

Clark of Marion county and Miles H. McLaughlin of Wyandot county are now avowed candidates. Congressman John A. Key of Marion is the only Democrat seeking the nomination at this time and will probably have no opposition.

PRESIDENT IS VICTOR

RULE LIMITING DEBATE ON TOLLS REPEAL BILL PASSED BY HOUSE.

TWENTY HOURS IS ALLOWED

Adoption of Rules Wins by Vote of 200 to 172—Speaker Clark Given an Ovation and Votes No Twice—Adamson Upholds Wilson.

Washington, March 30.—Two test votes taken by the house of representatives on Friday indicate that the bill repealing the free tolls clause of the Panama canal act will be passed.

The first ballot was on a motion to take up the report of the committee on rules limiting debate on the bill to 20 hours. The vote on this was: Ayes, 207; noes, 176. The majority for the administration forces was 31.

The second ballot was on the adoption of the rules. It was adopted, 200 to 172, a majority of 28.

When Speaker Clark entered the house chamber at 12 o'clock he was accorded an enthusiastic greeting. He cut short the ovation by asking the chaplain to pray.

Representative Adamson of Georgia opened debate on the rule with a direct attack on Speaker Clark.

"For nine years," he said, "a lobby has resounded throughout congress and the country in favor of free tolls. This is the first rule ever asked for by the interstate commerce committee since I have been connected with it. I first sought to have this bill considered in the ordinary way, but found it impossible to reach an agreement."

Prolonged applause greeted Majority Leader Underwood as he arose to uphold the rule. He said: "I am opposed to this repeal bill. I am also opposed to the rule for its consideration. I regret that the bill is before the house. I hope it will be defeated."

But the president, having laid this important question before congress, it must be considered, but it ought to be considered in the proper way. I have always endeavored to live up to and sustain my party's platform. The Democratic party, not I, wrote this free tolls provision in its platform. I believe this plank of the platform is right and believing this there is but one position I can take and that is to sustain the position of my party as expressed in its convention. I regret, of course, that I have to differ with the president and that I am compelled to differ with many of my colleagues here.

"The majority of the house has the right to legislate, but the minority has the right to be heard and propose reasonable amendment. I agree with the first clause of the rule, that the debate be taken up and carried forward without interruption, but I will offer an amendment which will put it into the hands of the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Adamson) to move at any time to cut off debate, and if he has the majority of the house with him he will be able to bring the debate to a close."

Speaker Clark's name was called as the roll call ended. "No," said the speaker, and the Republican side broke into applause, joined by a portion of the Democrats.

The list of Democrats who voted against "the previous question" and thus against the administration follows:

Alben, Brockson, Broun, Bruckner, Caraway, Carver, Conry, Dale, DeLoach, Duff, Dupre, Egan, Elder, Finley, Fitzgerald, Gorman, Golden, Graham, (Ill.), Griffin, Harrison, Helm, Igo, Jones, Kiesel, Kirkpatrick, Lee, (Pa.), L'Engle, Logan, McAndrews, McDermott, Mahan, Mahor, Mitchell, Morgan, (La.), Murray, (Mass.), Murray, (Okla.), O'Leary, O'Shaughnessy, Patton, (N. Y.), Phelan, Ragsdale, Raker, Sherwood, Stone, Taylor, (Ark.), Taylor, (Cal.), Thomas, Underwood, Williams, Wingo, Speaker Clark. Total—55.

Representative Kitchin, Democrat, of North Carolina, voted against the previous question on the roll call, but changed his vote to "present" just before the result was announced.

Republicans who voted for the previous question and the administration were:

Barnhardt, Browne, (Wis.), Gardner, (Mass.), McKenzie, Madden, Stenerson, Stevens, (Minn.), Gillett, (Mass.). Total—8.

ARMY HEAD MAY GO

CABINET FEARS DISRUPTION IN RANKS IF MARSHAL QUILTS.

Indications Point to Sacrifice of Secretary of War Seelye to Prevent Resignations.

London, March 28.—The British government's situation became more critical on Thursday. The crisis is fast approaching. Every indication points to the sacrifice of Colonel Seely, secretary of state for war, to prevent Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the imperial general staff, and Sir John Spencer Ewart, adjutant general, from resigning from the army council.

Both officials resigned. The resignations caused Premier Asquith to abandon his plan to make a further statement to parliament, and a cabinet meeting was called hurriedly. Every effort was made to induce Field Marshal French and the adjutant general to withdraw their resignations. Both men resigned because they were joint signers with Colonel Seely to the two repudiated paragraphs of instructions to General Gough. They refused to withdraw their resignations unless Colonel Seely was removed.

Fearful that the defection of its virtual head would cause the disruption of the army, Premier Asquith is believed to have decided to cast aside Colonel Seely, and it is said he again has resigned.

London, March 27.—Great Britain's cabinet is to be re-formed by Lloyd George, present chancellor of the exchequer, at its head, with the other members of the cabinet radical Liberals. Premier Asquith is to resign.

General elections are to be held within a few weeks, which would spell the defeat of the home rule bill.

These are the predictions after a day which will make history in Great Britain.

REBELS IN TORREON

FORCE FROM EAST FIGHTS WAY TO CENTER OF CITY—FEDERALS RETREAT.

CHIEF SEES A BIG VICTORY

Takes Gomez Palacio on Third Assault—Heavy Loss of Dead and Wounded on Both Sides—Section of City in Flames.

Juarez, March 30.—General Villa said, in a telegram received here, that virtually all Torreon, including the entire business section, was in the hands of his soldiers.

Gen. Monclova Herrera, his own rebel brigade and part of the Zaragoza brigade, all veterans, were reported by Villa to have entered Torreon from the east, 4,000 strong, and to have fought from house to house and street to street until the bull ring on the northern fringe of the town was taken with the section of the city through which the railroad passes. This included the business section or most of it.

The Sturnau hotel, in the heart of the city, was said to be in rebel hands and a battle for possession of the railroad shops was being carried on. The city was reported on fire in several places, but as the buildings were mostly of adobe there was no fear of a conflagration. A second telegram from Villa amended the first to show that the federals were concentrated in their last defense in the western portion of Torreon. Newspaper dispatches arrived with news of the occupation of Lerdo and Gomez Palacio by the rebels and of the attack on Torreon. Villa was said to be preparing to renew an assault in co-operation with Herrera. Generals Pena, Reyna and Anaya of the federals had been killed and General Ocaranza seriously wounded.

Gomez Palacio, Mex., March 30.—Four days of fighting, including three desperate assaults by the rebels, enabled Gen. Francisco Villa to move into this place and establish headquarters within three miles of Torreon. The deciding assault was preceded by a bombardment after which the infantry and cavalry dashed into the streets of Gomez Palacio. Rifles, machettes, pistols and hand grenades were used in a hundred different encounters in the narrow thoroughfares. The grenades, of home manufacture, were lighted with cigarettes, which are an official part of the equipment of every Mexican soldier.

General Villa said that his hat was off to General Velasco for his defense of the town. The conduct of the federals was a credit to them as soldiers. General Villa said, and Velasco proved himself a man of resource as well as courage.

General Villa did not yet know his own loss except that it was heavy. The wounded suffered terribly with thirst, and many died for lack of water and surgical attention. The dead of both sides were mingled in the streets or found under piles of earth which had once been adobe houses or corals, wrecked by rebel shells. Veterans said that no more furious battle ever was fought in Mexico.

Buckeye Notes

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

New Philadelphia.—Harvey Barnhill is probate judge and juvenile judge of Tuscarawas county. There are few like him in the country, folk here think.

Barnhill's method of handling incorrigibles has caused him to be known as the "kids' friend." Bad boys regard him as a pal.

Judge Barnhill doesn't believe in severe punishment.

"Every kid has a little good stored away some place in his body," he says. So he tries to arouse that spark of principle.

His favorite method is to have a little confidential talk with the incorrigible child. If a boy, a slap on the back, a hand shake, and he's dismissed on parole. If a girl, a gentle stroke of her tangled tresses, a tearful promise, and she starts all over again. In theft cases, Barnhill makes the youthful offender pay back the value of the goods stolen by money earned in doing errands.
